

INTO ORBIT

Orbital Systems for every Organization

AJE PELSER

Foreword

The idea of orbital structures based on God's Universe and its gravitational theory should catapult your thinking into new dimensions and draw you closer to the Creator and His ways. Although scientific facts and theories are quoted and discussed, every voyager (reader) should enjoy the journey of discovery instead of getting lost in a cloud of stellar dust of detail. Take one revelation at a time and merge it with other ideas to produce new galaxies of thought. Eventually the practical application of the principle will emerge.

While the allegory of the Solar System as applied to structures for individuals, families, churches and business needs some laws of physics and scientific integrity, the voyager will realize that "understanding establishes" a paradigm of thought. Such understanding will sustain long term development. Once again we realize how Great God is as a Creator and we draw from His wisdom. The ultimate wisdom comes from the Bible,

2 Timothy 3:16, 17

"All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be complete, thoroughly equipped for every good work." That means that a voyager like you could zone in more accurately on the coordinates for life with the handbook for spiritual travel close at hand!

Now that you have a spiritual handbook in the Bible, a Scientific Glossary of Terms is provided at the end of the book to keep track of your voyage of discovery through the interesting forces that produce your orbits. Use it as a reference point when conducting thought experiments at the end of each chapter. Your findings will undoubtedly form globular clusters of stellar debris that will expand massively then settle into a new system of thought as it collapses under its own gravity, pulling together circular planets and moons around a massive central idea!

Like Jesus used parables to reveal the principles and values of His heavenly kingdom, we can learn from the Universe He created and find our orbit for life. Through the examination of the forces at work in galaxies, blueprints for powerful organizational structures will emerge that are both accessible and sustainable. A good starting point for our meditation would be the force of gravity discovered by Sir Isaac Newton.

Chapter One rediscovers the value of Gravitational Force and relates to the law of attraction between organisations and individuals alike, albeit on a different scale.

Chapter Two deals with the Centripetal Force that “seeks the centre” of a galactic system.

To balance the inward force there is an outward force called the “Centrifugal Force” away from the centre described in Chapter Three.

The Fourth Chapter deals with the resultant elliptical orbits of celestial bodies influenced by these forces in equilibrium, and also explains what happens when there are unbalanced forces in a system. Some examples from everyday life might be quite revealing and expose a need for a gravitational shift into a different orbit.

Chapter Five is designed to expand your thinking and consider the vast reaches of your potential in relation to other galaxies.

For the Practical Section, Chapter Six explains how Orbital Structures can be applied to a Local Church. Examples of real Churches are mentioned and the converse of orbital structures are exposed in the pyramidal set ups of many denominations and religions. There is a wonderfully sustainable and glorious life available to believers that allow God’s forces of Communion and Commission to maintain balance centred on Christ Jesus – the centre of all activity in a Church.

One’s first church is one’s family and some ideas are shared with the idea of stimulating further meditation in Chapter Seven. Reflecting on the family with orbits in mind will no doubt stir up some supernovas of emotion and even hope for the future!

Business in relation to orbits and galaxies is described in Chapter Eight. Conducting business in different economic environments can be daunting.

By understanding the forces at work in target markets and finding core values of your company you can settle and establish your presence in a specific sector of business. The applications for team building using orbital structures can lead to reformed organizational structures that will prove to be more successful. Involving employees in such workshops would empower them to own the process of growth and even identify new galaxies of business never thought possible. Our team of Executive Coaches help to facilitate such workshops on request, and we have seen favourable results in different forms of business from Accounting Firms to Estate Agencies.

Tying up the different studies, Chapter Nine deals with Global Networking and Radio Astronomy. Gain perspective and understanding to establish long term principles ensuring prosperity. Bear in mind the global resources and relationships that will grow your concept larger than you ever could alone.

Chapter Ten touches on undiscovered facts of astronomy such as dark matter while exploring supernovae and black holes. The grand universe is ever expanding and so our sphere of life should grow to absorb new galaxies and experience the cycles of death and rebirth.

Relationships have different levels of attraction, as is the case with every body in the Universe...
